

Civics at Work — People, Government, and a Civil Society

---

Authors: Agency for Instructional Technology with the cooperation of the Center for Civic Education

Publication Date: 1997

Publisher: AIP with the cooperation of the Center for Civic Education

Sector: K-12

Information retrieved from: <http://www.ait.net/products/civics/links.htm>

Abstract:

Civics at Work — People, Government, and a Civil Society takes an active approach to civics and government instruction, based on the five organizing questions of the National Standards for Civics and Government. Civics at Work is a curriculum that is robust with rich experiences, relying largely on electronic and non-traditional resources rather than textbooks, which may also be used to bring life to an existing civics curriculum.

