A PhD in higher education from Purdue will prepare students to serve and lead in a variety of different roles in post-secondary institutions. The value of the degree is not only in the flexibility, rigor and individualized nature of the program, but also in the fact that Purdue — a leader in Higher Education worldwide — has so much to offer PhD candidates in terms of expertise, mentoring, and professional development in the field.

CHRISTINE KIRACOFE
Higher Education Program Director
Interested in the study of higher education or for a career in higher education leadership? In this program you’ll study higher education institutions, administration and organization. Course topics include:

- Higher Education Administration
- International and Intercultural Education
- External Political and Policy Environments of Higher Education
- Legal Issues in Higher Education
- Economics and Finance of Higher Education
- Human Resources Management

The program will culminate with an internship experience offering students real-world experiences with practicing higher education professionals.

WHAT MAKES US UNIQUE?

- Preparation for leadership in a broad range of higher education leadership roles
- Coursework will be offered in a hybrid format that allows students from throughout the U.S. and the world to participate in real-time, online video classes
- Quality and rigor are key components of all courses, leading students to challenge current assumptions and develop the skills and knowledge necessary to understand and work in a higher education environment
- Curriculum and experiences designed to offer real-world interactions and build highly marketable skill sets for a variety of Higher Education career paths

For more information, contact:
Dr. Christine Kiracofe
ckiracofe@purdue.edu
(765) 496-6068

The doctoral cohort will officially begin in August and the application deadline is May 30.

MORE DETAILS
education.purdue.edu/higher-ed-phd

APPLY
education.purdue.edu/grad-apply