Keeping You Informed

The Office of Teacher Education and Licensure will be releasing updates to you when definitive information is known on Indiana licensure matters that have been impacted by COVID-19. As of today, the following apply.

Pass/Fail and GPA Requirements for Licensure

There are up to THREE GPA categories that are calculated to qualify for an Indiana Instructional License or an Indiana Administrative License: Overall GPA, Content GPA, and Professional Education GPA. Each program will vary. Please refer to your Transcript Evaluation and Credential Review to verify what applies to you and your program.

When communicating with your academic or faculty advisor regarding Pass/Fail options, be sure to also calculate your GPA in each category to ensure that you remain above the minimum for licensure.

CPR Requirement for Licensure

Announcement from the Indiana Department of Education (IDOE)

The Governor’s Executive Order released on April 2, 2020 applies to license renewal, NOT initial licenses. You are working toward your Initial Instructional License.

Thus, for those expecting to be licensed between now and the 2020-2021 school year who may still need CPR training for licensure, sign-up for a blended course (American Heart Association and American Red Cross both offer this option; other approved CPR providers with blended training can be found at https://www.doe.in.gov/licensing/cpr-heimlich-maneuver-aed-certification) and complete the online portion of the training. Once in-person/onsite training resumes you will be in position to sign-up for just the hands-on skill practice component.

Pearson Tests and Testing Centers

Impact on Graduate Level Licensure Students

1. Pearson’s suspension of tests is scheduled until at least April 16th with revised information to be released soon. Please check Pearson’s website often for up-to-date information.
2. To our knowledge, there are no current online testing alternatives being proposed by the IDOE or Pearson. This is due to the IDOE’s contractual arrangement with Pearson that candidates sit for these tests, in person, at designated centers. Thus, as candidates you remain obligated to the testing centers.

3. School districts recognize that a delay in test accessibility translates to a delay in obtaining an initial license in Indiana and across the nation. The Office of Teacher Education and Licensure will continue to provide to the hiring school district letters of eligibility for candidates whose license may be pending.

4. Individual school districts, within and outside of Indiana, are anticipating that initial licenses could be delayed because of limited access to licensure exams. Be assured that districts are working on contingencies should these issues not be resolved before the start of the next school year. In the meantime, keep applying for positions, studying for your exams, and checking the Pearson website for updates.

5. The content testing accessibility concerns and its impact on Fall 2020 Student Teaching are scheduled to be discussed at the Teacher Education Council (TEC) Executive Committee on April 8, 2020. Should any action be taken at this meeting, more information will be released to the affected candidates.
